

FRENCH NEWSPAPERS MERCILESS IN THEIR COMMENT ON DEATH OF AGED EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEF

Official Confirmation Lacking,
but Paris Accepts
News as True.

IS A VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

Austria-Hungary's ruler long harassed by public and private misfortune, succumbs after years of failing health; walk proves fatal.

By Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 22.—A Havas dispatch from Madrid says the Austrian emperor has died of pneumonia.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Although no official confirmation of the death of Emperor Francis Josef had been received in Paris early this morning the press generally accepted the news as authentic. Special editions announcing the emperor's death were brought out rapidly and the passing of the monarch was discussed with the greatest interest. In their comment the newspapers are merciless. The Matin says:

"The slender old man who for 68 years was the double crown disappears too soon, notwithstanding his 86 years, for he has not seen the approaching hour of expiration of the crime for which he will bear eternally in history, a crushing responsibility and stigma. But the specter of punishment must have haunted his latter days if this man so monstrously indifferent was accessible to any feeling whatever—this man who witnessed unmoved the worst catastrophe heaped up by fate on his family and his country. The irony of fate. "If he had disappeared from the scene three years sooner the world would have forgotten his calculating cowardice, his ferocious egotism, his hypocrisy, and would have remembered only the private and public misfortunes which marked almost all the years of his reign without collecting that these misfortunes were all deserved. He would, perhaps, have been pitied. But justice has not permitted that he should escape the stigma of his supreme homage. It has made for his death a nothing of reprobation and horror."

It is not believed in Paris that the death of the emperor will affect the war in any way. The general impression here is that he had long been more or less of a figurehead, signing without reading documents to which his signature was necessary, and taking no part in affairs of state. The death of the emperor was caused by a cold which the aged monarch caught while walking in Schönbrunn Park 10 days ago with the king of Bavaria. The cold developed into pneumonia of the right lung.

The death of Franz Josef is a remarkable climax to a long list of tragedies in the Hapsburg family—a list unparalleled in any other reigning house in Europe. He dies in the midst of the world's greatest war, which he himself largely brought about by his determination to avenge the assassination of his heir, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, as the result of an alleged Serbian conspiracy, while on a visit to Bosnia June 28, 1914.

Franz Josef was 86 years old. He was born August 18, 1830. He was only 19 years of age when he ascended the throne of Austria upon the abdication of his uncle, Ferdinand I. December 2, 1848, making his active reign extend over a period of 68 years, all but the first 20 of which he was also apostolic king of Hungary. It is doubtful that it in all history there has been an active, authenticated reign that was longer.

The aged monarch, although he had suffered serious illnesses upon his health for many years past, was strong enough to keep a firm grip on affairs of state. There were repeated reports of a serious illness from bronchial affection, and frequently rumors of his death, which were proven unfounded. Some of the reports asserted his mind had become affected through worry over the war, but the truth of these rumors was not admitted.

In November, 1915, on the occasion of a visit of Emperor William of Germany to Vienna, it was rumored that Franz Josef was about to make a possible move for separate peace, but owing to strict censorship in Austria there was no confirmation of such a report.

The ultimatum of July 23, 1914, which Franz Josef sent to King Peter of Serbia, demanding the anti-Austrian propaganda in that country and the denunciation of Archduke Ferdinand, was supposedly dictated by Franz Josef himself, and it was this document that directly precipitated the war. Five days later, after Serbia had complied with all demands, with the exception of agreeing to allow Austrian authorities to enter Serbia to stamp out the alleged anti-Austrian propaganda, Franz Josef declared war.

As the war Franz Josef's

JAMMING BILLS THROUGH

West Virginia Measures Will Reach
Governor Hatfield in Few Days.

By Associated Press.
CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Republican leaders in the legislature today expected the two administration bills advanced in the Senate to the third reading yesterday to be passed and finally sent to the House today, where several days more will be consumed before they are ready for the signature of Governor Hatfield. These bills are looked upon as carrying out the spirit of the governor's special session proclamation as they take from the executive the final power of dismissal of appointive and elective officers through an appeal to the supreme court.

The primary election law, which was reported out by the committee yesterday, is promised a rough road by certain members of both parties in both houses, who openly declare they would like to see a modified convention system restored. It was said by leaders that they hope to see finally passed a bill restraining the minority parties to their places and candidates fees materially reduced.

NEGRO IS JAILED

Gets 30 Days After a Fight Which Keeps Five Days in Jail.

William Walls, colored, of Dawson, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail after a police court hearing before Mayor Marietta this morning. Walls, who was charged with being drunk and resisting arrest, was locked up by Baltimore and Ohio Officer Coughenour and Patrolman Daugherty at 3 o'clock this morning, but not until the cops had been given the fight of their young lives. During the struggle a man was broken over the negro's head, but it didn't seem to faze him. The arrest was made in the Baltimore and Ohio yards.

Mat Widmer was another who received a jail sentence this morning. Mat, who was disorderly in a North Pittsburgh street restaurant, was sentenced to the county seat for 20 days. Six other arrests were made by a police yesterday. Charles Kirbywhite, who has a habit of using profane language on the streets, will be a member of the chain gang for four days. John Kelley of Dawson, who has been bringing on the streets, will also be a member of that select body, though for two days only.

ASKS EMBARGO ON FOODSTUFFS

Fitzgerald of New York Urges
Quick Legislation

A CURB ON GREAT BRITAIN

Chairman of Appropriations Committee Declares a Halt on Shipments to Allies Would Reduce Living Costs and Make England Behave.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Representative Fitzgerald, Democratic chairman of the House appropriations committee, announced today that he favored an embargo on foodstuffs and that it was his purpose to prepare a bill and to press the subject early in the coming session of Congress.

"Two reasons chiefly impel me to favor embargo legislation on foodstuffs," said Mr. Fitzgerald. "It is the most effective weapon in our controversy with Great Britain over her unwarranted, outrageous and indefensible blockade of American merchants. As our foodstuffs are needed abroad an embargo will be more effective than twenty months of diplomatic negotiations which end in the continuance of the indefensible practices against our rights."

"Embargo also should be imposed for purely domestic reasons. The price of foodstuffs here has reached such a point that it is a widespread distress to the country. Many hundreds of thousands of our people are suffering from the lack of the necessities of life. Wholesale prices on many commodities are less now than they were a year ago; here the retail prices have advanced alarmingly. The argument that the embargo should be done to interfere with the export of our foreign trade does not impress me. Of what profit is it if our foreign trade is to grow with leaps and bounds while our own people are brought to the verge of starvation as a result of the embargo?"

"The time is ripe for the embargo and I hope to see legislation speedily enacted to impose it. Let America be for America first."

It seems to be generally agreed here that the coming session of Congress will see a fight over the embargo proposed by Mr. Fitzgerald, which is backed by numerous petitions signed by thousands of persons and organizations.

President Wilson and the Cabinet are understood to oppose it.

BEGIN TESTS FOR BIG COAL PLANT

Indications Point to Early Development of Large Plant of Greene County Coal.

Material and equipment were unloaded at Carmichael yesterday for the drilling of three test holes on the property of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company. It was unofficially stated that the holes are to be drilled immediately to determine the slope of the coal seam and the depth of the coal will be put down within a very short time. It is said that a large coal and coke plant will be constructed by the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company on its properties as quickly as it can be done. Engineers of the company are busy on the work.

The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company is the owner of 9,000 acres of coal in that vicinity and it is to be operated at a plant to be constructed about one-half mile from Carmichael, eastward toward the Monongahela river. It is said that the plant will be the largest in Greene county.

James A. Campbell, who is a member of the J. V. Thompson Coalition Committee, is president of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company. J. V. Thompson is the owner of a large area of coal lands near the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company's properties.

Dr. Young Shows Students How the Long-Necked Bird Warbles.

Dr. Roy Young, former violinist with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, gave reproductions of bird songs and sketches of American Indian music before the high school students in chapel this morning. Dr. Young, who is making a study of bird music, declared he had a rare old Italian violin, declared by experts to be physically perfect and valued by some at $50,000. On the violin he played the song of the goldfinch and the ostrich and played the love tune of a young Indian as played on the flute he fashioned out of a turkey's leg.

Those who knew anything about birds admitted that Dr. Young's imitation of a goldfinch was good, but they had to take his word about the ostrich. Indeed, it was a surprise to the students to learn that an ostrich sings at all. Dr. Young, however, maintains that it does and declares that this bird is a ventriloquist, being provided with this talent by nature as a means of deceiving its enemies.

Dr. Young will give a miniature performance for school children in the high school auditorium on the afternoon of December 3.

FEW TRAIN CHANGES.

H. & O.'s New Schedule Becomes Effective Sunday.

Only a few minor changes are to be made in the Baltimore & Ohio's passenger schedule next Sunday, so far as the Connellsville division is concerned.

No. 57, the Cumberland accommodation, will leave there at 5:30 instead of 5:50 A. M. and will arrive here at 9:02 instead of 9:30 A. M. This train will thus have 15 minutes more time to make the run between Cumberland and Connellsville.

No. 56, westbound, will arrive here at 4:25 instead of 4:35 P. M. No. 51, from Fairmont, will be due at 4:10 instead of 4:25 P. M.

MORRELL AVENUE
RESIDENTS GIVEN
PAVING REDUCTION

They are Allowed Nearly $1
a Foot Rebate From Assessment.

MUST PAY FOR SEWER TAPS

Council Decides That a Charge of $10
Will be Imposed for Every Connection in Outlying Sections is Discussed.

Instead of paying for their street paving at the rate of $3.63 a foot from as originally assessed against them, residents of Morrell will have the cost computed at the rate of $2.55 a foot from an adjustment made by the council at a special meeting last night, whereby a cost of the sewer construction and about 700 feet of extra excavation work was deducted from the property owners' share of the expense. A resolution was adopted allowing credits for these items.

The total cost of the Morrell avenue improvement was $3,713.98, but the following deductions were made: West Penn Railway, cost of paving along tracks $2,070.92; extra work $137.23; sewer inlets $172; manholes $180; eight inch sewer $789.60; 12 inch sewer $218.20; cement $24.40; street approaches $487.53, a total of $4,866.61. The amount left to be assessed against the property owners is $3,555.47.

It was decided, however, to make each property owner pay $10 for every sewer tap and for the cost of lateral sewers from the trunk line to the property line. This is in accordance with the plan whereby the city constructs the sewers and charges the property holders $10 for each tap besides paying the cost of the sewer to the property line. The sewer question was discussed at considerable length. Solicitor E. C. Higbee contended that the city should only build the terminal sewers and require property owners in the outlying districts to construct their own connections. Mr. Duggan claimed this would be unfair, even though he admitted that the residents of the districts did not help pay for the central sewer system, they being residents of the township when the bond issue for a sewer system was paid off. Mayor Marietta declared that inasmuch as the property owners had to pay all of the paving costs, they should not be required to stand the expense of sewers too.

It was brought out in the discussion that the county viewers had eliminated the cost of sewers from all paving assessments except Morrell avenue. That council would fight the suit of the Haines-Kurcz Company for $426.65, the cost of the sewer built by South Side men with the understanding that the old borough would eventually pay for it, was indicated by Mr. Duggan. He stated his belief that the agreement was not legal. Mr. Duggan said he built 1,800 feet of sewers on Seventh street. "I've still got it," he remarked.

The Jacobella road sewer was also discussed. This was built, and the cost included in the general total of the paving. Now it develops that a portion of this was laid in the township and the county, which agreed to pay a portion of the cost, is not permitted to pay for sanitary sewers. Solicitor Higbee advised that if the property owners will not pay for the sewer it should be disconnected from the city system until they do.

Councilman Duggan intimated that eventually an extra mill may be levied for sewer construction.

Three ordinances transferring funds from appropriations that were far to those running short were introduced.

It is expected that the ultimate decision as to whether the law will go into work January 1 will be handed down before that time.

A transcript of the present case will be filed in the United States supreme court before it reconvenes December 4.

Mrs. Malloy Alleges That Her Husband Deserted Her and Sued for Marital Freedom is Allowed.

Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Rebecca C. Black Malloy, 20 years old, of South Brownsville, was granted a divorce today by Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen from Michael J. Malloy of Cleveland. They were married August 12, 1909, when Mrs. Malloy was only 13 years old, at Wellsburg, W. Va., dissolution on November 20, 1914, was alleged.

A jury was selected and sworn today for the trial of the suits of Emma S. Marshall and Harry Marshall and George L. Moore against the Monongahela Railroad Company before Judge Van Swearingen. The jurors were taken to South Brownsville by an officer of the court to view the premises. Emma S. Marshall, the owner of a lot fronting 40 feet in Grant avenue, South Brownsville, is suing the railroad company to recover $3,000 damages for alleged damage to the lot.

Attorneys for the Pennsylvania railroad, defending the suit of Mrs. Rachel Harvey of Grindstone, for $50,000 damages for the death of her husband, Ira F. Harvey, today read to the jury a release signed by Mrs. Harvey releasing the H. C. Frick Coke Company from all damages on account of the death of her husband. Claim is made by the railroad that Mr. Harvey's death was due to negligence on the part of the Frick company, who employed him. Harvey was killed at Grindstone August 9, 1915, while he was unloading a car of brick.

WINS BIG AWARD

Mrs. Anna Jordan Gets $5,124 for Death of Husband.

Attorney D. W. Henderson, counsel for Mrs. Anna Jordan of Franklin township, yesterday received a decision of Referee Thomas J. Dunn, of the Workmen's Compensation Board, in which an award of $5,124 and costs is made to Mrs. Jordan for the death of her husband on last January 18. The decision is of particular interest not only to Fayette county, but to the state at large.

George Jordan was killed in Franklin township while driving a team belonging to Austin Livingston, who was employed by Abrams & Jones to haul a drilling stem. The wagon upset, killing Mr. Jordan. Claim was filed by the widow for compensation for herself and four minor children, who are under 16 years of age, against Abrams & Jones and the State Fund Insurers. The claim was contested at a hearing held October 27 in the office of Attorney Harwood, Attorney Samuel J. Snyder of Huntington, representing the State Fund, Attorney Snyder contended that Austin Livingston, who employed Mr. Jordan to do the hauling and who did not carry insurance, was responsible for the fatality. Referee Dunn in his decision, however, held that Abrams & Jones and the State Fund are liable for the compensation. The award is one of the biggest that has been made in Fayette county.

Council Acts on Project to Extend
These Streets, a Movement Agitated for Many Years.

As a result of the inspection by members of city council yesterday morning, it was decided to extend Edna street from its present terminus to Main street. It will be necessary to purchase about 26 feet from the Renner estate and the offer of J. Kirk Renner to sell this strip for $1,100 was accepted. Council decided upon this extension at its special meeting last night. Edna street will connect with East Main street about midway between Fayette and Murphy.

It was also decided to extend Tenth street through from Francis avenue to Fayette street, so that school children will not have to make the long detour by way of Eighth street to reach the Third ward building. To do this it will be necessary to make an agreement with the Cottage State Hospital trustees and other property owners. Street Superintendent John Duggan was instructed to lay out the proposed extension and council will then take action on it.

Rather than risk going before a jury in a damage suit instituted against the city by the late S. P. Weiner, council decided to settle for $255.25. Mr. Weiner was thrown from the sidecar of a motorcycle on South Pittsburgh street before it was paved. He entered suit for damages and after his death his administrator proposed settling the case for the sum above named.

FIND MAN'S BODY

Stranger is Picked Up Dead Near the Old Jackson Mine.

The body of an unidentified man was found in the Youngstown river at the old Jackson mine about two miles east of Dawson, this morning by Constable R. J. Murland on the pick-up train of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The man was at Dawson yesterday and while talking to section men who were working along the railroad track he was struck with an epileptic fit. He was picked up by the men and after a slight cut on his face had been attended to he continued on his way.

It is thought that while walking along the bank by the river he was seized with a second fit and fell into the river, as he was lying with his face downward near the edge of the river. The body was removed to Funeral Director W. H. Parkhill's establishment at Dawson and prepared for burial. In the man's pocket was a small St. John's Gospel testament presented him by the Pittsburgh mission.

RAIN IS PROMISED

Weather Man Promises on the Democratic Ratification Parade.

The weather forecast for this evening east of Uniontown upon faithful Democrats who were planning to go to Uniontown to see the Wilson ratification parade. The Weather Man said it's likely to rain and the overcast skies at noon seemed to bear out this diagnosis.

The West Penn has made arrangements to provide special service if it is necessary. This morning, however, only one special car had been chartered, that by the Dunbar Democrats. An extra car will be run from Dickerson Run at 5:15 to convey the Y. M. C. A. Band and others from that section who want to participate in the ratification.

Connellsville Democrats, exhausted by their efforts to put on a celebration here last week, were evidencing little enthusiasm over the Uniontown parade.

Increase of 10 Per Cent Will Become Effective December 15.*IS LIKELY TO INCLUDE MINERS

Announcement Makes No Reference to Other Than Iron and Steel Subsidiaries, But Mining Concerns Have in the Past Benefited With Others.

The United States Steel Corporation yesterday announced a voluntary increase of 10 per cent in the wages of the employees of its steel and iron companies, to become effective December 15. This is the third advance this year. An official of the corporation stated that increased living expenses had much to do with the action of the big concern.

Although there is no reference in the announcement to the mining companies, it is presumed that employees of the H. C. Frick Coke Company will ultimately be included in the general advance. The mining companies have invariably shared in the general wage advances of the past, and there is no reason to believe that they will be excepted at this time. There is a decided shortage of labor in the Connellsville coke region, which a wage advance might relieve, to some degree.

At the offices of the H. C. Frick Coke Company at Scotland no statement was forthcoming. Officials said the only information they had on the subject was that contained in the morning papers. It is usually a week or more after such an announcement before they are given official notice of a wage adjustment.

The new schedule will place wages at the highest figure ever paid by the corporation. It is estimated that 7,000 men in the Pittsburgh district alone will profit by the advance. The companies affected include the Carnegie Steel Company, National Tube Company, American Bridge Company, American Steel & Wire Company, American Sheet & Tin Plate Company and several smaller concerns.

The wage advance affects a total of 200,000 employees of the corporation, and is expected to add about $20,000,000 a year to the payroll.

OTHER CONCERNS FOLLOW.

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 22.—Following the announcement of a 10 per cent increase by the United States Steel Corporation, the Erie Hill Steel Company and the Republic Iron & Steel Company today announced a similar increase for its employees. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, it is expected, will follow the lead. About 30,000 workmen in this district are affected.

PRICE IS RAISED

Thirty-five Cents to be Admission for Greensburg Game on Saturday.

Due to the big expense of the Greensburg game, the admission for Saturday has been raised to 35 cents. Besides paying car fare and expenses of the visiting team, the home management is required to give a cash guarantee. This and other incidentals forced the boost in price. Connellsville is the last of high school teams in this section to raise a price in this season. Others having been charging 25 cents for some games and 50 cents for others for the last two seasons.

Connellsville is practicing hard for the Greensburg game. A hard scrimmage was held last night and another is on the program tonight. After that only light work will be done. All of the players are in good shape except Center McCormick, who still suffers from a corn ankle, and Halfback Lyon, who has a bruised shoulder. Both are expected to be in the game Saturday.

FRANCIS JOSEF CALLED BY DEATH

reign was one of the most eventful in history. He saw the French monarchy go down, the second empire rise and crumble, the emperor, Napoleon III, and the republic of today rise on its ashes; he saw the black plagues of the Prussian eagle stamped on the flag of the new German empire—later to tower threateningly over Austria itself; he saw the papacy shorn of its territorial domains, while about a bleeding family of petty principalities was welded into united Italy; he saw Spain, once the greatest of colonial powers, lose the last of her dependencies in two oceans; he saw Japan appear to Western civilization, and later defeat the sprawling Colossus of two continents; he saw the most absolute despotism—Russia, Turkey and Persia—crushed representation to the people; he saw the United States cement its federation with the blood of a great internecine war, and he saw his own brother prove that monarchy could not take new root on American soil.

In his own country he faced internal dissensions and external aggressions from the moment he came to the throne. By the war of 1859 with France and Sardinia, he was forced to cede Lombardy to Italy; by force of arms and treaty he lost the Duchy of Holstein to Prussia and Venice to Italy; and by the revolt of Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, he barely escaped having his dual empire cut in two.

But in human interest his personal sorrows overshadowed all. One after another they came upon him. In 1863 the list of tragic incidents began with an attempt upon his own life. In 1867 his brother, Archduke Maximilian, after three years' experiment as emperor of Mexico, was captured by the army of the patriots and condemned to death by a court martial whose sentence was executed notwithstanding intercession in his behalf by the United States, England and Prussia.

There followed the burning to death of a niece in Vienna; a sister met similar fate in Paris; and a cousin drowned himself in Starnberg Lake. Yet those were but minor tragedies in comparison with that which befell the ancient house of the Hapsburgs in 1889 when Rudolf, the imperial prince upon whom the Austrians placed their hopes, met death in a mystery which to this day is not cleared.

But it is doubtful if any or all of these reverses weighed more heavily upon the Emperor's heart than the tragedy of Geneva, when Empress Elizabeth, who had been called the most beautiful woman in Europe, was stabbed to death by an Italian anarchist in 1898.

As a soldier the emperor was beloved of his army. In a crushing reverse by the French at Solferino he suffered such humiliations that he is said to have wished to die with his men that he stood motionless in the fire of a battery, hoping to be struck down. But none of his reverses made him any less popular at home.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When Crosse, Feverish and Sick, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become lightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then four little ones become cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs," because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters and here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

CITY EXTENSION IS VERY COSTLY

Council Looks Askance at Possibility of Talking in South Connelville.

The high cost of living is as nothing compared to the cost of city extension, according to members of city council who discussed the subject during the course of a special meeting last night. From their attitude, the acquisition of South Connelville will never be effected.

"This business of taking in a lot of territory and making a big city is all right," declared John Duggan, "but the cost of improvements for these outlying sections soon becomes burdensome."

"They talk of taking in South Connelville," remarked Solicitor E. C. Higbee. "Why it would take from $2,000 to $3,000 a year more than we would get from it in taxes to run it. Then we would have to build sewers, street lights and make other improvements."

The discussion followed the sewer discussion, it having been brought out that residents of outlying sections who subsequently are taken into the city get the benefit of improvements paid for by the residents of the city proper.

"Yet it would be unfair to sandbag these people by making them pay for sewers after they get in the city," said Mr. Duggan.

EGG SHORTAGE IN ALLEGHENY COUNTY

less Than a Dozen for Each Inhabitant Is on Hand and This Number May Sink.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 22.—Allegheny county has less than a dozen eggs for each of its people, according to calculations made last night by Dairy and Food Commissioner James Foust, and if the shipments to the seaboard for export to warring Europe continue, this number will be materially reduced.

Mr. Foust says that reports show 1,185,100 dozens of eggs in the Union Storage and Terminal warehouses. The North Side and Standard warehouses have no eggs in shell in storage and neither has the People's Food & Storage Company of McKeesport. The figures are taken from cold storage reports and Mr. Foust figures that there are 1,018,463 people in the county.

Last month there were about 12, 200,000 dozens of eggs in the cold storage plants in the state, but large shipments have been made to New York for export since. Probably 7,000,000 dozen eggs are in cold storage warehouses in the whole of Pennsylvania coming under state supervision, so that a serious shortage is looming up for Thanksgiving.

The answer, Mr. Foust says, is an embargo on food exports as all lines of provisions show reduced stocks.

ARTIFICIAL COAL

Process of Making It from Lye Said to Have Been Perfected in Norway. Manufacture of coal from waste materials of paper factories—an industry which holds forth promise of reducing the cost of paper and furnishing at small cost an excellent substitute for coal as a fuel product—is described in a report made by American Consul General, Dunnigan at Christiania, Norway. The project is said to be practicable and an exploiting corporation with $425,000 capital, has been formed by Norwegian interests.

Department officials discussed whether such a project could not be undertaken successfully in the United States, particularly in paper-producing localities, and said that if this were done it might provide some relief from the threatened coal famine and prove valuable to paper manufacturers. The inventor of the coal substitute is R. V. Stralander, a Gothenburg engineer. The process is said to be that of producing coal in powder form from sulphite lye. Under the sulphite process only 40 per cent of the weight of the timber is utilized. The remainder falls as refuse into the lye, and it is this, over half of the timber, which Dr. Stralander's process transforms into coal.

It so, it will pay you to read our advertising columns.

WOMAN AVOIDS OPERATION

Medicine Which Made Surgeon's Work Unnecessary.

Astoria, N. Y.—"For two years I was feeling ill and took all kinds of tonics. I was getting worse every day. I had chills, my head ached, and I could not sleep. I was always tired. I could not walk straight because of the pain in my back and I had pains in my stomach. I went to a doctor and he said I must go under an operation, but I did not go. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told my husband about it. I said 'I know nothing will help me but I will try this.' I found myself improving in the very first bottle, and in two weeks time I was able to sit down and eat a hearty breakfast with my husband, which I had not done for two years. I am now in the best of health and did not have the operation."—Mrs. JOHN A. KORTIG, 502 Flushing Avenue, Astoria, N. Y.

THE SLEUTH'S DETECTION.

The great detective eyed his visitor thoughtfully.

"Yes, Mr. Blake," solaced the grief-stricken woman, "many attempts—eight in all, I think—have been made on his life, but he was so strong and handsome that he felled them all."

She buried her face in her hands, and her shoulders shook.

"You say your husband wears a green hat and long ginger side whiskers?" asked the detective gently.

"Yes, yes, sir," answered the woman, wiping her eyes with her gloves.

Mr. Blake thoughtfully of the man he had seen by the river bank only that afternoon and of the strange bundle the said man had borne. Then he bent gently toward the woman.

"I am sorry, madam, believe me," he said softly, "but it is too late. Your man is dead!"

Naturally.

"I do not care for mittens chop whiskers on a man."

"No; they tend to give him a sheepish expression."—Baltimore American.

YOUR CHRISTMAS MONEY.

Every dollar you spend outside of Connellsville in your Christmas shopping means that the Holiday Season will fall that much short of what it should be for your city.Every dollar you put in circulation in Connellsville will enrich the community one hundred cents' worth, and help to make a better Christmas for every citizen and merchant through whose hands it may pass in the course of trade.Every dollar you send to some other town or city helps in like manner the merchants and citizens of that town or city and takes one hundred cents out of the circulating medium in Connellsville, and to that extent makes it harder for somebody who may owe you to get the means with which to pay.Every merchant in Connellsville who receives a dollar from you in exchange for his Christmas wares will pay out a very large part of it for clerk hire, rent, advertising light, fuel, taxes and other local needs which will help to make your own share of some of these expenses easier to meet.Merchants in out of town places to whom you send a dollar, will apply it to their own city or town just as our Connellsville merchants would do if you spent it here. The next time you pay your taxes there will have been added a trifle to the amount to make up for what the use of your dollar would have supplied had it been spent here.Connellsville merchants have, or can get, everything you want or need for your own or your friends' Christmas.
They will make the prices right and they are on the ground to make good all the statements in their advertisements.When you buy of Connellsville merchants you don't have your purchases subjected to the delays and possible damages or loss incident to the great rush of traffic at the Holiday Season.
You can take them home with you or have them delivered at your door at no expense or trouble and without anxious waiting.Determine now to spend all your Christmas money at home this year.
Study the advertising columns of The Courier and select the articles you want. Gladden the heart of the advertiser, satisfy your own tastes, please your friends, get your money's worth show your pride in your city and help it to have the Biggest Christmas in its history. If you do it will be the Best and happiest for you.

TIME FOR CHANGE.

There has been repeated discussion
in the public press and in Congress over the desirability of advancing the date of inauguration of our presidents from March 4th to the corresponding date of April. The principal argument in support of this change has been that, in the climate of Washington, inaugural day is so often accompanied by such inclement weather that a witness or participant in the ceremonies results in serious impairment of health not infrequently terminating fatally.While no definite action has ever been taken toward making the change
there have never been any valid reasons advanced why the change should not be made. It seems rather that the movement has been held in abeyance awaiting an opportune time. This excuse now no longer exists. The next inauguration day falls on Sunday and while the ceremonies will be observed after the usual manner the person of the retiring president will be the person of the incoming. Under these circumstances the next inaugural would be a very fitting time to effect a change in the date.A delay of thirty days in terminating the tenure of office of the Democratic incumbent will not be objected to by either loyal Democrats or staunch Republicans while the term of the Democratic successor will suffer
no curtailment under the new order of things and be no less agreeable to the Democrats. The then ex-president Wilson will have received an extra month's salary and the new President Wilson will receive his every month of the succeeding four years.
Again, having been assured that we are to have a new Wilson as successor to the old, the change in the inauguration date will serve to appropriately mark the transformation.Bryant expresses great fear that the Democratic party will be buried in a drunkard's grave when it gets on the water wagon. It is more likely to meet its timely and appropriate end by seeing the other day when that overloaded vehicle begins to totter down the toboggan after the war.The 6-cent glass of beer is now cheaper of the 6-cent load of bread.Knowing that the President cost but 32 1/2 cents who would feel that it was worth no more than it cost.

COMMUNITY DAY.

The interest which the Community Day gathering is arousing in the farming sections of the county is such as to prove the wisdom and foresight of those who have promoted them. As a means of bringing the dwellers on the farms into closer social intercourse, and to direct their minds into new channels of thought and to awaken a desire to broaden their knowledge of subjects relating to their work as farmers, the Community Days are not only interesting but they are helpful and enlightening.Aside from the advantage to be gained from an informal coming together of neighbors and friends the educational value of these meetings is of much importance. The addresses made and papers read provide a means for the spread of the latest ideas, methods and practices in agriculture and will prove very beneficial to those farmers who are alert to take advantages of those things which insure a larger return from their labors.In connection with these Community Day activities it is becoming to be the practice in many sections to make the occasion the time for awarding the prizes for which the boys of the farm have contended during the past season in raising corn and live stock. These contests have invested farm life with a new interest for the boys. They are being given recognition as important factors in farm life and as a result they are being imbued with a healthy desire and animated by a wholesome rivalry to do their work a little better than some other boy. In participating in these contests the boys are gaining an intimate knowledge of the funda-mentals of farming which will tend to develop them into successful agriculturalists while making them useful citizens.These contests, Community Day, and the other agencies that are being fostered by the Farm Bureau work, are accomplishing little short of wonderful in lifting farm work to a place of large importance, to relieve it of much of its drudgery and to make it both a practical science and a profitable business. All this bodes well for the industry and will serve most excellently to restore Fayette county and the state of Pennsylvania to that pre-eminence they respectively hold as leaders in the great industry of farming in the years before industrial development began to gain its ascendancy."Least of all," says the New Freedom Standard, "should the farming be accepted as a day of thanks for what we have gained through the misfortunes of others. It is not our Prosperity, nourished by the blood of Europe, the very thing for which Democracy has already given fervent thanks."The Ratification Fund was very much like the President itself—bigger before than when it actually happened.When a Connellsville real estate owner can trade one lot in Washington D. C. for four in Connellsville it shows either how much the prospect of farming money has already depreciated or how much better the Connellsville man is than his Washington brother. Possibly a little of both.A reduction in the rate of interest on savings accounts will not be considered by wage earners as helping to reduce the High Cost of Living.The ladies suit manufacturers have and loved a young woman to find out what the women want to wear next before entering upon her duties. She will undergo a thorough preliminary training and drill in guessing contrivies and mind reading.If Secretary Daniels saved over $1,000,000 in buying 25,000 worth of armor plate as he claims to have done won't it pay the government better to make the secretary purchasing agent than letting him run the new government armor plate plant?Nerve-racking noises take place with 'round of the President in the amended lexicon.The United States Steel Corporation is contributing its mite not to a reduction in the High Cost of Living exactly but to the means by which the employees can meet it.The school inspector wouldn't stand inspection.The News fancies off a section of Main street (Grandford avenue) today ending at Brimstone Corner in which it finds a bedlam of sounds and nerve-racking if not inspiring. But why stop at Brimstone Corner in describing the boundaries of this sound production center?From present indications President Wilson will have Congress on his hands, the labor leaders on his back and many things on his mind this winter.Goose flesh on bare throats and cheats has supplanted August turns as the latest neck ornament for women.Once in a great while are we reminded that we have a transient office.Already the earth in the vicinity of the County Capital begins to tremble with the tread of the assembling Purveyors.

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, out it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and your kidneys suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The uric acid gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink—Adv.

BLOCKADE

Every Household in Connelville Should Know How to Resist It.

If your back aches because the kidneys are clogged, if you suffer with uric acid, if you should help the kidneys with their work.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for weak kidneys.

Recommended by thousands—home testimony proves their merit.

G. B. Percy, 409 Johnson Ave., Connelville, says: "About twelve years ago I was doing some heavy lifting in the foundry and I began to have weakness across the small of my back and dull pains through my kidneys. The kidney troubles became too frequent in passages and I had to get up several times at night. The secretions also caused a burning sensation. I took treatment from a doctor and although he gave me some relief, the trouble always came back. A friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and I tried them. They cured me after I had taken a few boxes."

HOME TREATMENT FOR SORE THROAT

Sore throats, with their attending evils of acute discomfort, hacking coughs, and sometimes fatal weakening of the system, are the curse of the northern races. Yet people too often accept them as Mohammedans accept the plague, without effort to cure or to prevent. Since sore throats are the work of germs, they can, however, be easily prevented and relieved.

All that is necessary is to kill the germs that cause the raw feeling of the membranes and often cause annoying accumulations of phlegm, which must be partially cleared away by these conservative efforts of the lungs which go by the name of coughs.

The most efficient, economical and safe germicide for the purpose can be made at home by simply adding five or ten drops of Hycolorite to a glass of water. This Hycolorite water should be used as a thorough gargle for the raw throat in which the germs have made their home, or as a preventive gargle at the first symptoms of a cold in the throat.

Hycolorite will do the work more efficiently than any of the many germicides now on the market. It is a solution of sodium hypochlorite. A U. S. government report has been published showing that 130 antiseptics were recently tested in the military hospitals of Europe and sodium hypochlorite declared by the surgeons to be the most economical and effective of them all.

Although many times more powerful than the harmful antiseptics which contain poisons, acids, mercury or dangerous preservatives, Hycolorite is even safer than the weak and ineffective peroxide. It is clean and harmless as water—but powerful. Any druggist can supply Hycolorite in 25 and 50 cent bottles. General Laboratories, Madison, Wisconsin.

ION-O-LEX UNGUENT

Probably the most important discovery that has been made in the field of medicine in fifty years.

A DETROIT PHYSICIAN WRITES:

"I am commencing to believe that Ion-o-lex Unguent is all—and even more than you claim for it—"

"In one bad case of tonsillitis the temperature was reduced from 103 to normal in 24 hours. In former attacks this patient has always suffered from 5 to 10 days."

"My own wife has suffered with spasmodic contractions of the throat for 12 or 14 years, and it has always been necessary to administer narcotics for relaxation."

"The last attack was unusually severe, being a combination of the throat trouble and pneumonia—Ion-o-lex Unguent and Liquid kept the disease under perfect control, and by the fifth morning the temperature was reduced from 103 to normal—Ion-o-lex is the only thing we have ever found that has given her any relief whatever."

"I am using Ion-o-lex Unguent in my general practice, and cannot say too much for it."

Another prominent Detroit Physician prescribed Ion-o-lex Unguent as a last resort for a deep-seated felon, upon which an operation had been pronounced absolutely necessary. Inside of 24 hours the patient was so much better that the operation was entirely unnecessary, and recovery was surprisingly speedy.

Use Ion-o-lex unguent wherever there is local inflammation—It should always be used in coughs, sore throats, bronchitis, tonsillitis, pneumonia, neuritis, acute rheumatism, eczema, erysipelas, and in all cases of burns, scalds and wounds or anywhere else that there is apt to be inflammation. Two Sizes—50 Cents and $1.00

Get a small package of Hamburg Brew Tea, or the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brew Tea," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time. It is the most effective way to break up a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

"But what do you want me to do? You—yourself, I mean?"

"You're going back?"

"Absolutely."

"Because you love the hospital, or because you love somebody connected with the hospital?"

Sidney was thoroughly angry by this time, angry and reckless. She had come through so much that every nerve was crying in passionate protest.

"It will make you understand things a little better," she cried. "I am going back for both reasons."

She was sorry the next moment. But her words seemed, surprisingly enough, to steady him. For the first time, he sat down.

"Then, as far as I am concerned, it's all over in it?"

"Yes, Joe, I told you that long ago."

He seemed hardly to be listening. His thoughts had wandered far ahead. Suddenly—

"You think Christine has her hands full with Palmer, don't you? Well, if you take Max Wilson, you're going to have more trouble than Christine ever dreamed of. I can tell you some things about him that will make you think twice."

But Sidney had reached her limit. She went over and hung open the door.

"Every word that you say shows me how right I am in not marrying you, Joe," she said. "I don't want to say those things about each other under any circumstances. You're behaving like a bad boy. I don't want you to come back until you have grown up."

He was very white, but he picked up his hat and went to the door.

"I guess I am crazy," he said. "I've been wanting to go away, but neither reason such a fuss—I'll not annoy you any more."

He left her standing there and ran down the stairs and out into the street. At the foot of the steps he almost collided with Doctor Ed.

"Back to see Sidney?" said Doctor Ed kindly. "That's all right, Joe. I'm glad you've made it up."

"The boy went blinding down the street."

CHAPTER XVII.

Winter relaxed its clutch slowly that year. March was literally cold; even April found the roads still frozen and the hedgerows clustered with ice. But at midday there was spring in the air. In the courtyard of the hospital, convalescents sat on the benches and watched for colorful blue, red, and yellow which had frozen out, was being repaired. Here and there on ward windows still tulips opened their gaudy petals to the sun.

Harriet had gone abroad for a flying trip in March, and came back laden with new ideas, new fashions, new fresh enthusiasm. Grace Irving, having made good during the winter sales, had been sent to the spring cottages. She began to walk with her head higher. The day she sold Sidney material for a single gown, she was very happy. On Sidney's return, on Christmas the winter had left its mark heavily. Christine, re-creating her life to new conditions, was graver, more thoughtful. She was alone most of the time now. Under K's guidance, she had given up the "Duchess" and was reading real books. She was thinking real thoughts, too, for the first time in her life.

Sidney, as tender as ever, had lost a little of the radiance from her eyes; her voice had deepened. Where she had been a pretty girl, she was now lovely. She was back in the hospital again, this time in the children's ward. K, going in one day to take Johnny Rosenfeld a basket of fruit, saw her there with a child in her arms, and a light in her eyes that he had never seen before. It hurt him, rather—things being as they were with him, when he came out he looked straight ahead.

K had fallen into the habit, after his long walks, of dropping into Christine's little parlor for a chat before he went upstairs. Those early spring days found Harriet Kennedy busy in the evenings, and, save for Christine and K, the house was practically deserted.

The breach between Palmer and Christine was steadily widening. She was too proud to ask him to spend more of his evenings with her. On those occasions when he voluntarily stayed at home with her, he was so disconcerted that he drove her almost to distraction. Although she was convinced that he was seeing nothing of the girl who had been with him the night of the accident, she did not trust him. Not that girl, perhaps, but there were others. There would always be others.

In Christine's little parlor, then, K, turned, one spring evening, she was reading by the lamp, and the door into the hall stood open. The little room always cheered K. Its warmth and light appealed to his esthetic sense after the bareness of his bedroom. It spelled luxury and comfort, but also it was very human.

"Come and sit down," said Christine. "Here's a chair, and here are cigarettes and there are matches. Now!"

He sat down. Christine stood watching his head in the light of the desk lamp. "What a strong, quiet face it is!" she thought. "Why did she get the impression of such a tremendous reserve power in this man who was a clerk, and a clerk only? Really, she made a queer, unconscious gesture."

"But what do you want me to do? You—yourself, I mean?"

"You're going back?"

"Absolutely."

Top to Bottom—WALTER RUNCIMAN, LORD DEVONPORT, LORD MILNER

Walter Runciman, president of the British board of trade, has advised that Great Britain appoint a food dictator with powers similar to those exercised by the German official.

Three men have been suggested for the onerous post—Runciman himself (at top in pictures), Lord Devonport, a Briton who made a huge success in retail trade before his advancement to the peerage (middle portrait), and Lord Milner, who won fame as an administrator in South Africa under the name Sir Alfred Milner (at bottom in pictures). Colonel Winston Churchill predicted in the House of Commons that it would be necessary to adopt ration tickets for all essentials, and that prices would have to be fixed to secure to the poorest classes the possibility of buying a certain modicum of food. He said that he was quite sure national organization of agriculture was inevitable.

"We need a great organization," he concluded, "for producing munitions of life just as we do for munitions of death. The government do these things while there is yet time."

of her hand one day after the rush of surgical dressings was over and which she had just been told that she was to be a mother.

There was another piece of paper over which Sidney spent much time. It was a page torn out of an order book, and it read: "Signee may have light diet: Rosenfeld message." Underneath was written, very small: "You are the most beautiful person in the world."

Two reasons had prompted Wilson to request to have Sidney in the operating room. He wanted her with him, and he wanted her to see him at work. He wanted her to see him at work. He wanted her to see him at work.

The despising and brooding of Sidney's character had been very noticeable in the last few months. She had gained in decision without becoming hard; had learned to see things as they are, rather than as she wished them to be.

But her new theory of acceptance and rejection in her mind. She was in a state of wild revolt, for instance, as to Johnny Rosenfeld, and more recently, but not deeply concerned over Grace Irving. Soon she was to learn of Milne's predicament, and to take up the angels vainly for her.

But her revolt was to be for herself too. On the day after her appointment to the operating room, she had her half-holiday, and when, after a restless night, she went to her new station, it was to learn that Wilson had been called out of the city in consultation, and would not operate that day. O'Hara would take advantage of the free afternoon to run in some odds and ends of cases.

The operating room made gauze that morning, and small packets of tampons; absorbent cotton covered with sterilized gauze, and fastened together—twelve, by careful count, in each bundle.

Miss Grange, who had been kind to Sidney in her probation months, taught her the method.

"Use instead of sponges," she explained. "If you noticed yesterday, they were counted before and after each operation. One of these mistakes is worse than a bank clerk out a dollar at the end of the day. There's no dodging up until it's found."

Sidney eyed the small packet before her anxiously.

"What a hideous responsibility!" she said.

From that time on she handled the small gauze packets most reverently.

The operating room—all glass, white enamel, and shining nickel plate—first frightened, then thrilled her. It was as if, having loved a great actor, she now trod the enchanted boards on which he achieved his triumphs. She was glad that it was her afternoon off, and that she would not see some lesser star—O'Hara, to wit—sampling his place. But Max had not sent her any word. That hurt.

The operating room was a hive of industry, and long kept pace with fingers. What news of the world came through the great doors was trans-

Less Willard says: Take Nuxated Iron

If you want plenty of 'stay there' Strength and Endurance and Health and muscles like mine.

JESS WILLARD AT HOME

Among all the prominent figures of the prize ring, probably none is so devoted to family life as Jess Willard. After each engagement the champion hurries to his wife and children and remains at their side until public demand forces him to leave for new encounters. Everything is done to bring up the "little Willards" with strong healthy bodies. Mr. Willard accounts for his own success by saying:—

"I consider that plenty of iron in my blood is the secret of my great strength, power and endurance."

How much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking.

Just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work, or how far you can walk without becoming tired.

Take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were unable to do any work, double their strength and endurance, and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles, in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had been suffering for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of iron, iron acetate or iron sulphate, or iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron. If you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance.

ated at once into hospital terms. What the city forgot the hospital remembered. It took up life where the town left it at its gates, and carried it on or saw it ended, as the case might be. So these young women knew the value of many things, the beginning of some, but of none did they know both the first and last, the beginning, and the end.

By many small kindnesses Sidney had made herself popular. And there was more to it than that. She never failed. The young men girls had the respect for her of one honest worker for another. The episode that had caused her suspension seemed entirely forgotten. They showed her carefully what she was to do; and, because she must know the "why" of everything, they explained as best they could the respect for her of one honest worker for another. The episode that had caused her suspension seemed entirely forgotten. They showed her carefully what she was to do; and, because she must know the "why" of everything, they explained as best they could the respect for her of one honest worker for another.

It was while she was standing by the great sterilizer that she heard, through an open door, part of a conversation that sent her through the day with her world in revolt.

The doctors were putting the antiseptics in her mind. What was this? Sidney, waiting for the time to open the sterilizer, was busy for the first time in her hurried morning, with her own thoughts. Because she was very human, there was a little confusion in her mind. What would these girls say when they learned of how things stood between her and their hero. Not shameful, this; the honest pride of a woman in being chosen for many.

The voices were very clear. "We're going to have our own." "Do you think he has really broken with her?"

"Probably not. She knows it's coming; that's all."

"Sometimes I have wondered—"

"She has others. She oughtn't to be here, of course. But, among so many, there is bound to be one now and then who—she just 'quits'."

She hesitated, at a loss for a word. "Did you—did you ever think over that trouble with Miss Page about the medicines? That would have been easy, and like her."

"She hates Miss Page, of course, but I hardly think—If that's true, it was nearly murder."

There were two voices, a young one, full of soft southern inflections, and an older voice, a rifle hard, as from disapproval.

They were working as they talked. Sidney could hear the clatter of bottles on the tray, the scraping of a moved table.

"It was crazy about her last fall," "Miss Grange" (The younger voice, with a thrill in it).

"Carlotta. Of course this is confidential."

"Surely."

"I saw her with him, in his car one evening, and on her wedding last summer."

The voices dropped to a whisper. Sidney, standing cold and white by the sterilizer, put out a hand to steady herself. So that was it! No wonder Carlotta had been so—she was so steady enough in a moment, cool and calm, moving about her work with ice-cold hands and slightly-narrowed eyes. To a sort of physical nausea was succeeding anger, a blind fury of injured pride. He had been in love with Carlotta, and had tried to do her wrong. He was bringing her his warm-over emotions. She remembered the bitterness of her month's exile, and its probable cause. Max had stood by her then. Well he might, if he suspected the truth.

For just a moment she had an illuminating flash of Wilson as he really was, selfish and self-indulgent, just a trifle too carefully dressed, daring as to eye and speech, with a carefully-calculated daring, frankly pleasure-loving. She put her hands over her eyes.

The voices in the next room had risen above their whisper.

"Carlotta has privileges, of course," said the older voice. "He is a very great surgeon. Tomorrow he is to do the Edwards operation again. I am glad I am to see him do it."

Sidney still held her hands over her eyes. He was a great surgeon; in his hands he held the keys of life and death. And perhaps he had never cared for Carlotta; she might have thrown herself at him. He was a man, at the mercy of any scheming woman.

She tried to summon his image to her aid. But a curious thing happened. She could not visualize him. Instead, there came, clear and distinct, a picture of K. Le Moyne in the hall of the little house, reaching one of his long arms to the chandelier over his head and looking up at her as she stood on the stairs.

CHAPTER XIX.

"But, Sidney, I'm asking you to marry me!"

"I know that. I am asking you something else, Max."

"I have never been in love with her." His voice was sulky. He had drawn the car close to a bank, and they were sitting in the shade, on the grass. It was the Sunday afternoon after Sidney's experience in the operating room.

"You took her out, Max, didn't you?"

"A few times, yes. She seemed to have no friends. I was sorry for her."

"That was all?"

"Absolutely. Good heavens, you've put me through a cat-in-the-hat for ten minutes!"

"If my father were living, or even mother, I—one of them would have done this for me, Max. I'm sorry I had to. I've been very wretched for several days."

It was the first encouragement she had given him. There was no coquetry about her aloofness. It was only that her faith in him had had a shock and was slow of reviving.

"You are very, very lovely, Sidney. I wonder if you have any idea what you mean to me?"

"You meant a great deal to me, too," she said frankly, "until a few days ago. I thought you were the greatest man I had ever known, and the best. And then—I think I'd better tell you what I overheard. I didn't try to hear. It just happened that way."

He listened doggedly to her account of the hospital gossip, doggedly and with a sinking sense that, not of the talk, but of Carlotta herself. Suddenly one might count on the woman's silence, her instinct for self-protection. But Carlotta was different. Hang the girl, anyhow! She had known from the start that the affair was a temporary one; he had never pretended anything else.

There was silence for a moment after Sidney finished. Then—

Some of the Pretty Girls With "Watch Your Step."

"WATCH YOUR STEP"—There isn't the least doubt but that "Watch Your Step," which is to be presented at the Colonial on Wednesday, November 23, is a big hit, bigger even perhaps than "Chin Chin," which held the record up to the time of "Watch Your Step" was produced.

By sheer force of speed, tempo and generally happy-go-lucky atmosphere, this big gaudy musical front, provides the sort of entertainment which every music loving community likes. Built somewhat on the lines of "Ziegfeld Follies," without any palpable imitation thereof, "Watch Your Step" just rags and turkey trots from one frivolity to another. Always made enjoyable by musical numbers that have melody and merit, and by a cast of principals that could push a far less deserving piece to success.

Irving Berlin, America's champion song writer, is the composer. Mr. Berlin has not attempted to soar to new heights. In both lyrics and music he has adhered to his familiar formula, each of his songs has a swing that squarely hits the mark.

The particular ensemble called "Old Operas in a New Way," is characteristic of the whole piece. The scene discloses the stage and the boxes of the Metropolitan. The persons in the boxes are attending to everything except the performance, even their knitting is not overlooked. One of them is being maintained; another is telephoning from an instrument placed in the box. Others are drinking champagne. Grand Opera boys them, and the singers render selections from the various operas in ragtime, in which the audience joins. There appears in the upper box the ghost of Verdi, who in song pleads with the people not to commit blasphemy of converting his "Rigoletto" into ragtime tunes. But Verdi is forgotten in the distant past, and on with the ragtime in the city, and the conclusion enables the company to bring down the curtain on a rousing and ingeniously arranged finale as the musical stage has ever seen.

The production is gorgeous in its display of costumes and settings. The color schemes are worked out tastefully, and it is, in brief, a production of the whole, surprises himself in originality and invention. The stars are the best entertainers that money can secure, and the songs and dances are executed with such vim and spirit that from first to last the interest never wanes.

enough" stenographer. Her chance came when her father hired a girl to go to the redwood forests of California to work in his office there. Ruth played a trick on her father, bribed the girl who was regularly employed to surrender her credentials, and when Miss Bennett, under the other girl's name, took the job, events in time, Cal. started to move swiftly. Bennett was one of a syndicate of millionaires who wanted to control the timberland and pay the squatters practically nothing for their interests. Ferdinand Stocker represented Bennett, and as Stocker's stenographer, Ruth learned that there was a game of "double crossing" that applied both to the squatters and the timber monopolists that worked both ways to the benefit of Stocker's private purse. Miss Bennett likewise discovered that Jerry Simpson, a young man who spent his leisure studying law that he might better fit himself to defend his father and neighbors against the inroads of the "timber ring," was not alone a clever chap but an extremely manly and upright person, worthy of regard, and certainly attractive in his many personal characteristics. How Ruth worked out the solution that sent Stocker down the timber "chutes" to his death, and ultimately secured for himself a very fine specimen of mountain manhood as a husband, will be detailed in "The End of the Rainbow." The scenic glories of the Sierras, the grandeur of the redwood forests of California, and the correctness of natural embellishments will be beautifully photographed as settings for the various episodes.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME"—A Triangle-Fine Arts feature, starring Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, is today's feature. "The Old Folks at Home" was selected by the distinguished English actor himself. Rupert Hughes, the author, has won an enviable place for himself as a writer of short stories and it is no exaggeration to say that the story selected is among the best he has ever written. Briefly told, the production is the story of a typical American family who find themselves suddenly removed from the peace and security of their home on a farm to the turmoil and temptations of a great city. As is often the case, the young son of the family falls victim to the lures that beset him in the metropolis. The sturdy character of the father finally saves the family from devastating disaster and accomplishes the return of the erring one to an environment that, if less exciting is assuredly safer. An excellent cast which includes Josephine Crowell, Elmer Clifton, Mildred Harris, Lillian Youngs and others, give strong support to Sir Herbert Tree, and makes the picture one of the strongest ever released in the Triangle program. A Keystone comedy, "The Busted Trust," is also included in the program. Tomorrow, Mary Miles Minter will be seen in "Youth's Endearing Charm." Friday, Eddie Polo will appear in "Back to the Front." Tuesday, November 28, Dustin Farnum and Winifred Kingston will be seen in "The Parson of Panamint."

Brier Hill Buys Mill. The Brier Hill Steel Company has purchased the property of the Western Reserve Steel Company of Warren, O. The plant will have a capacity, when finished, of about 60,000 tons of sheet a year. The purchase price is estimated to be $1,000,000.

Not yet Thanksgiving, and here's a chance to take your pick of the LARGEST and BEST stock of LADIES' SUITS in the city, and pay only ONE-HALF their regular fair, low prices. And this, too, when prices are generally going UP and UP. This cut of a full half dwarfs into insignificance any other price reduction you may have been informed of by other establishments. It sets a new record for early season price-cutting! It sets a new record for value! It sets, without a doubt, the date when you will buy your Suit, for it goes into effect immediately—TODAY.
